

I was saddened to learn that the commission voted on a proposal to allow increased ownership of broadcasting stations by entities such as newspaper giants and others. I'm very concerned that news has become more and more one-sided due to ownership by a few. Different points of view have become increasingly reduced in terms of news coverage in the media in general. With the passage of this proposal, I foresee the situation becoming even worse. Slanted news does NOT make for a strong republic, but does serve to make for a closed society. Frankly, I'm appalled to see the path the FCC has elected to follow!
